Women Raise $1740 for Fire Company

Revenue from Benefit Far Surpasses Expectations of Workers.

COMMITTEE THANKFUL

A grand total of $1740.21, a sum which far exceeded their hopes, was raised by the women of Narberth at the Firemen's Benefit held January 30 and 31 at Elm Hall. This was announced at a tea given the workers by the chairman, Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, on Monday of this week.

A check for this amount will be presented to the trustees of the Narberth Fire Company at the company's meeting next Tuesday evening by the officers of the benefit: Mrs. Mueller, chairman; Mrs. E. H. Cockrill, treasurer; Mrs. F. A. Egmore, secretary, and Mrs. C. H. Shaw, publicity. The benefit was held to help defray the $2500 outstanding on the Fire Company's apparatus.

The Benefit Committee acknowledges their grateful thanks to more than two hundred individuals who contributed either cash or goods for the affair. Practically every merchant in the borough made generous contributions as did several Philadelphia concerns.

The committee extends their thanks to any contributor who may have been overlooked when donations were acknowledged. The chairman, Mrs. Mueller, adds her personal thanks to

Forum Commences New Course of Bible Study

The study of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick's book, "The Modern Use of the Bible," was completed by the Forum, under the leadership of the Rev. Robert E. Keighton, at the sixth meeting which was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller on Essex Avenue.

A new series of studies was started at the seventh meeting, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Drew, Moreno Road. Moses, as a historical character and as the political and religious founder of the Hebrew nation, was discussed.

Last night (Thursday) another meeting was scheduled to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Staples, 124 Woodside Avenue. The subject was the character and significance of Saul.

Appointment Confirmed

The appointment of Charles Girvin as Sergeant of Police for the Borough of Narberth has been confirmed by the Lower Merion Board Commissioners and by the Borough Council. He will be responsible, subject to instructions from Burgess Henry A. Frye, for the enforcement of Borough ordinances.

Deputy Chief

John A. Miller, an active member of the Narberth Fire Company for 20 years, who was sworn in as deputy chief at the February meeting of Council last Monday.

Fire Company to Meet

The regular meeting of the Narberth Fire Company will be held next Tuesday evening at Elm Hall. The money raised in the recent benefit will be presented by the officers to the trustees of the Fire Company at this meeting.

Use Snow Remover

The new chemical compound, used successfully in the city of Philadelphia to remove and break up snow and ice on the streets, has been successfully utilized in the Borough during the recent storm. The Highway Department of the Borough recommends its use by property owners for the removal of snow and ice from sidewalks. It may be purchased in small lots from the local hardware dealers.

'Activity Makes Centres,' Dr. Tily Tells 250 Business Leaders of Main Line Towns

DR. HERBERT J. TILY

"People like to shop where there are plenty of stores. Strawbridge & Clothier will not be the only beneficiary of the establishment of a branch department store in Ardmore. Other mercantile houses are certain to gain by the increased trade. Centres are made by activity." This was the message brought by Dr. Herbert J. Tily, president of Strawbridge & Clothier, to 250 business men, representing every form of enterprise and nearly every organization along the entire Main Line, at the Ardmore Chamber of Commerce dinner Wednesday evening in the Masonic Building.

"So far as we are concerned the decentralization of our business in building a branch store is an experiment," said Dr. Tily, "but it is a commercial trend that is being adopted by department stores in Chicago, Boston and other cities of the nation."

To Leonard W. William, president of the Counties Title & Trust Company, who introduced the speaker, and to his associates was given credit for selling the idea to the department store management of establishing a store in Ardmore.

Dr. Tily gave statistics concerning the value of competition at a center, asserting that 187,000 people passed the corner of Eighth and Market Streets, where three large department stores are located, in one day.

Community Service At Theatre Sunday

Dr. Arthur James, Noted Phila. Pastor, to Speak on 'Undying Fame.'

Dr. Arthur C. James, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Philadelphia, will be the speaker at the first of a series of community services at the Narberth Theatre on Sunday evening, February 23, at 7:45 o'clock.

The subject will be "undying fame," a study of Washington and Lincoln. Dr. James is much in demand as a speaker on occasions such as this. His church is one of the leading congregations of the Methodist denomination in Philadelphia.

Participating in the service as soloists will be Mrs. Henry Van Dyke who will sing "Great Peace Have They," and George Wetherill, who will sing "The Lord Is My Light." Miss Celeste Warren will be the organist.

The Rev. Samuel MacAdams, pastor of the Narberth Methodist Episcopal Church, will act as chairman of the meeting. The co-operating groups sponsoring the series of community services of which this is the first, are the Protestant churches of the borough, the Merion Friends' Meeting, the Woman's Community Club and the American Legion.

'Drummer Boy' Speaker

A drummer boy of the Civil War, the Rev. T. Asher Hess, D. D., of Philadelphia, will speak at the Men's Club of the Methodist Church on Thursday evening, February 27, at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be open to the men of the community.

Teachers Supper Guests

All the teachers of the Main Line Church Schools were the guests of the All Saints Church School for supper on Monday evening, February 17.

Following the supper there was a short service. Deaconess Frances Rose Edwards, of the Department of Religious Education of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church of America, was the speaker.

Narberth Building and Loan Association to Mature Four Series During 1930

In next week's issue of "Our Town" there will be printed the twenty-third annual report of the Narberth Building and Loan Association, as well as the notification that at their regular meeting, Thursday night, March 6, a new series of stock in both the short and long terms will be opened.

During 1930 this association will mature four series and open four new series, and it is hoped that there will be as many shares subscribed in the new series as the association will mature in the old.

Thomas C. Trotter, Jr., secretary of the association, or Williams S. Howard, treasurer of the association, will be very glad to explain the Building and Loan idea to any one interested, and subscriptions will also be taken at the Narberth office of the Merion Title and Trust Company and the Narberth National Bank.

The long term series matures in about eleven years and two months at $200 a share, and consists of a monthly payment of one dollar per share, which added to twenty-five cents a share entrance fee, paid the first month only, makes an initial payment of $1.25 per share.

The short term series matures in six and a half years at $200 a share and consists of a monthly payment of $2.00 per share, plus twenty-five cents a share entrance fee the first month, or an initial payment of $2.25 a share.

Any of the directors or officers, or either of the banks will be glad to accept subscriptions for the new series which opens Thursday evening, March 6, at the office of the Narberth Building and Loan Association, Elm Hall, Narberth, from 7 until 9 P. M.

Psychologist Enthralls Large Club Audience

Dr. Mary W. McConaughy, mental hygiene consultant at Mount Holyoke College, held a large audience in rapt attention at her talk before the Woman's Community Club of Narberth on Tuesday afternoon.

Speaking on some of the causes of unhappiness, Dr. McConaughy, whose brilliant personality is itself a cure for the blues, pointed out a few of the things that modern psychology has done to effect harmonious adjustments which means happy living.

The objective attitude was cited by the speaker as the means to healthier and happier living. Leading a strenuous life, one has no time for introspection and self-centeredness.

The speaker was secured by the Welfare Chairman of the club, Mrs. Charles H. Shaw, who is a Mount Holyoke graduate.

The "open house" dinner and bridge next Thursday evening, February 27, is planned especially for husbands. One of the women in charge said, "If you can't bring your husband bring someone else's. The dinner will be too good to miss." The Executive Board and the Board of Directors of the club will act as hostesses.

Genealogy is a paradox. Each of us has two parents and four grandparents and sixteen great-grandparents, and so on. Reckoning back a thousand years and allowing three generations to a century, your very great-grandparents of the thirteenth generation numbered over 240,000,000.

New Sound Equipment For Narberth Theatre

The Narberth Theatre is installing new and improved 1930 Vitaphone and Movietone Western Electric equipment, also a new sound screen, all to be ready March 3. The initial production with the new equipment will be George Arliss in "Disraeli."

Because of its fine acoustics, the Narberth Theatre will have a perfect sound reproduction according to a survey of electrical research engineers. The equipment, which is being installed, is the same as that at the Roxy Theatre in New York and the Boyd Theatre in Philadelphia. The future screen programs and the fine sound facilities will put the Narberth Theatre in the front rank of Main Line amusement places.

Mothers' Council Birthday

A pleasing program featured the third birthday party of the Mothers' Council of Narberth last Monday evening. Dr. George A. Sloan spoke briefly on the work of the Baby Clinic and urged mothers to use this service for children of pre-school age. His remarks were followed by three songs by the Girls' Glee Club. Mrs. C. H. Woolmington introduced Dr. Barclay L. Jones, of Friends' Central School, who spoke on the value of the Mothers' Council to the school, the wisdom of reading widely and wisely, and of the pleasure and profit to be derived from contacts in meetings such as this one. Preceding the program the parents sang several songs, under the direction of Miss Fricke.

Strawbridge & Clothier

Welcomed to Main Line

He pointed out the need for a definite objective in business, urged that the organizations represented federate their efforts, and stated that one of his convictions in successful retailing was that a business must rest on a structure of organized knowledge.

William T. McIntyre, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the dinner, in introducing officers of the business organizations, service clubs and of stores well known throughout the East, clearly showed the great scope of enterprises represented by the diners. Among those introduced were:

Frank Coffman, president of the Paoli-Malvern-Berwyn Rotary Club; Edward W. Ehmann, president, Main Line Kiwanis Club; Lowell Gable, Paoli-Malvern-Berwyn Rotary Club; John W. Phillips, Ardmore Chamber of Commerce; J. E. Hammer, president, Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club; Ralph Dunne, president, Narberth Board of Trade; W. Russell Green, president, Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club; Harry T. Leedom, treasurer, Ardmore Rotary Club; William H. C. Ramsey, President, Bryn

D. Lynam, president, Wayne Chamber of Commerce. All of the above named Mawr Business Association; Charles organizations were well represented.

In addition to Dr. Tily, Strawbridge & Clothier was represented by John Jackson, general superintendent, and B. C. Burlingame, manager of the Main Line branch. Also introduced by Mr. McIntyre were J. C. Rill, superintendent of the Philadelphia Terminal Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad; J. B. Williams, of J. Franklin Miller; G. Earl Smith, vice president of Bortnot's; Bernard F. Sweeney, of the Almar Stores.

Particular credit for the success of the dinner was given to Henry F. Wile, of the Bell Telephone Company, chairman of the committee in charge. An interesting break in the evening's program was furnished by Barclay H. Azpell, whose music store furnished a radio so that none would miss the usual fifteen-minute session with Amos and Andy.

Another joint meeting of all the business organizations and service clubs of the Main Line will be held Thursday, March 6, at a 12:30 P. M. luncheon in the Masonic Building, Ardmore. Philip H. Gadsden, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, will speak on "Looking Ahead."

"FOUR FEATHERS"

FORE AND AFT

The play which is generally considered the very peak in achievement of America's foremost playwright, "Strange Interlude," by Eugene O'Neill, will be presented at the Garrick Theatre for a brief engagement beginning Monday night, February 24. The Theatre Guild, which produced it in the Eastern metropolis early in 1928, where it ran for 73 capacity weeks and was awarded the Pulitzer Prize as "the best play of the year," is bringing it here under the auspices of the Art Alliance.

"Strange Interlude" is undoubtedly the greatest novelty the theatre has had in years. It is quite the longest play current, consisting of nine acts, though of course not the first drama of extensive length. It does not depend upon the regular lines of dialogue to tell its complete story, but trusts more to the "asides." By these, the hidden thoughts of each character are expressed. Oddly enough there is no apparent interruption of the dialogue, although the action remains static while one character or another is indulging himself in a chat with the audience or with himself.

The play itself may be termed an epic of a woman's soul. Miss Leeds is a real creature, swayed by impulse and passion, constantly striving for the happiness which always seems just ahead. She is a complex symbol of womanhood, depressed and changed in nature by the shattered romance of her youth, to be buffeted as a pawn of fate in the years that follow, marrying one man, loving another, and facing the sunset of life with a third.

The art of O'Neill is apparent everywhere throughout the nine long acts. In "Strange Interlude" he writes of life he evidently has seen and lived, and he presents no superficial, matter-of-fact exposition, but a vibrant, serious if also curious drama that strips bare the very souls of his men and women.

A carefully chosen cast is promised by the Theatre Guild of its own metropolitan players, including Judith Anderson, George Gaul, Blaine Corder, Frank Conroy, Maud Durand, Mary Holsman, James Todd and Lester Sheehy.

Playgoers should bear in mind that the performance begins precisely at 5:30 in the afternoon—with a dinner intermission from 7:40 to 9, and the final curtain descends at 11 o'clock.

Rarely in the history of the theatre has a long tour been embarked upon by a large company of actors for a purpose other than financial gain or the satisfaction of personal ambition on the part of a star. Single performances are constantly being given, of course, for the benefit of one or another charity; but a long tour of a regular organized company—the sole object of which is to raise funds for a particular object—is almost an unknown thing in the theatrical world.

The second tour of the Stratford-upon-Avon Festival Company, from the Memorial Theatre at Stratford, is one of these very rare enterprises in the theatre. The frankly stated purpose of the transatlantic tour is to add to the fund for the rebuilding and the endowment of the Shakespeare Memorial at Stratford, which was destroyed by fire in March, 1926. This edifice, which stood for fifty years, was one of the finest memorials in the world. It had been erected in the late seventies by the Shakespeare Memorial Association under the leadership of Charles Edward Flower, who donated a tract of land and 50,000 pounds toward the enterprise. The building contained a library, museum and the theatre proper, upon the stage of which nearly every theatrical celebrity of England appeared. Fortunately, the part of the building housing the library and the museum was not destroyed in the conflagration, and the entire collection of precious Shakespeareana was therefore saved.

Employment Versus Charity

In a wealthy section of the size and population of the Main Line area there is always a fairly large proportion of residents who depend on wages, sometimes day-to-day wages, for their sustenance. At present, according to the Main Line Federation of Churches, there are quite a number of workers without sufficient work, among them several skilled painters, carpenters, plumbers and handymen. This condition is due in part, according to a survey, to a reticence of home owners to make seasonal repairs and alterations on the usual schedule. This attitude in turn is due to a recent unfortunate financial condition which has caused extreme caution in the expenditure of funds.

Work of this sort, however, must be done eventually, and delay is working a hardship on wage-earners in various trades. One way to alleviate the condition is through aid by the Welfare Federation, the churches and other charitable organizations. The generosity of this section cannot be questioned. But it would be far better if there were a concerted effort on the part of those who can give employment to others not to withhold this work until later in the season. After all the Main Line is made up of a group of self-respecting communities. That self-respect should be maintained.

Better Business Service

Full co-operation by all merchants of Narberth should be given to the movement of the Board of Trade in its educational program to increase and improve the business service in the borough. The most favorable accomplishments are obtained only when all interested individuals and firms put their support firmly behind plans that will be of benefit to all concerned. Indicating the scope of Narberth's trade section by means of a Classified Directory is certain to show resident customers that nearly everything needed for personal or home use may be purchased in a friendly and neighborly atmosphere. Community merchants render a valuable service to their patrons and are worthy of greater support. Nevertheless prospective buyers are like Missourians—they must be shown.

More Room to Play

Two Main Line communities, Narberth and Haverford, have recognized the need of an outlet for the energies and enthusiasms of youth by establishing playgrounds and recreation centres. It is also noteworthy that Haverford has the principal skating pond hereabouts while Narberth's borough officials always see to it that streets are reserved for sledding when there is snow. May we hope that other nearby communities follow their example.

Announcement of the gift of three acres by Horatio Gates Lloyd brings the total of the Haverford Community Centre's holdings to about six and one-half acres. Although at present modestly equipped with apparatus, the playgrounds are well laid out and, with the improvements scheduled, should become a model centre. Last year fourteen groups used the facilities of the Centre building for athletics, handcraft, drama, dances and other activities.

Narberth's building and athletic field finds widespread use by the several organizations who help to make up the splendid community spirit and life of this borough. In fact, only a Main Line neighbor, Conshohocken, is believed to surpass Narberth in the scope of its activities in the entire suburban section.

Throughout this section there is no dearth of cultural and recreational activities and summer finds the school playgrounds in full sway. But it is true that some of these activities are restricted and there are some towns, notably Ardmore and Bryn Mawr, that need more room for their young folks to play.

A school boy in Mexico recently shot his teacher. Pupils who shoot their teacher in Chicago have to stay in after school, go to the board and write: "I must not shoot my teacher" 100 times.

UNCLE CY'S COLUMN

Attacked

Ho, hum! Another week. However, I forgot to mention that I have been attacked thrice this week, more or less anonymously each time. Two blows at last week's column. Here is one:

February 15, 1930.

Dear Uncle Cy:

I wish to defend Miss Evans' definition of "Capillarity" in your last column as absolutely correct and that her average be raised to about 60%. I would like warn you (as ms.) not to try the bucket experiment if you are depending only on capillary attraction because if you do you will find yourself all wet. Hoping that this correction will be made in the next issue, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

Uncle Y's.

Well, Uncle, why don't you come out of your ambush of anonymity and engage in a real battle of wags? Incidentally your punctuation is—well—you know.

* * *

And here's another:

Dear Uncle Cyrus:

I am disappointed in thee, Uncle Cyrus. Why should thee be so hard on poor Miss Evans? I am sure she did very well indeed—for a girl.

Of course, it is perfectly evident what is the matter with thee. Thee is afraid of the young lady. It is apparent that thee is a married man, but if thy wife does not divorce thee for advertising that thee is henpecked, she is kinder to thy shortcomings than thee has shown thyself toward Miss Evans.

Not that Miss Evans stands in need of thy charity! Her definitions are not at all bad, and if she is willing to give thee her company at luncheon, thee should count thyself fortunate to have so well-informed a companion. If it were not against my principles I should wager that thee has lunched with many a young lady whose mind was less well-furnished than Miss Evans. And if it is really true that thee has accepted the Reverend Mr. Keighton's definitions without even seeing them, then it ill becomes thee to be so captious with Miss Evans.

Let not thyself be hypnotized by a title, Uncle Cyrus. Many a man is Reverend by profession, but not by practice. And although I do not question the validity of Mr. Keighton's claim to both the luncheon and the title, I am constrained to point out to thee that thee thyself admits that thee is not sure what title Miss Evans can claim.

On the whole would it not be more friendly, WHEN thee lunches with her, to call her "Florence"?

And as for thy opening the columns of thy little journal to a "discussion" of Prohibition—dear Patience, Uncle Cyrus, does thee think that is wise? And if thee is going to do so, how can thee set a limit of four hundred words? Even the United States Senators, great and wise men that they are, have used more than that, and the question is not settled yet.

To be sure the Lord's Prayer has only seventy, and Lincoln's Gettysburg address about 268, but if thee thinks there is, among thy readers, one qualified to enter either of those classes, thee is indeed optimistic. But, like a quarrel and a marriage, it takes two to make a discussion. And if thee thinks thee numbers two of the necessary calibre among thy fellow-townsmen, then thee is crazy, that's all.

Give my love to Aunt Patience, and know I am

Thy loving,

Niece.

One hardly may reply to this friendly reprimand. Who is thee, Niece? Come forth.

Villanova Pushes Building Program

Construction of Home For Commerce and Finance School Starts Next Summer.

CLASSES CROWDED NOW

Construction next summer of a building to house the Villanova Commerce and Finance School is recommended by the Villanova College Committee of Development in a report made public this week.

William J. McGlinn, president of the Continental-Equitable Title and Trust Company, heads the committee of Philadelphia business and professional men who are surveying Villanova's potentialities.

The committee recommends that the college make arrangements as soon as possible to start the building project before material costs return to a higher level and an ample labor supply disappears.

The report states: "Today the School of Commerce and Finance is next to the fastest growing department in the college. It showed a 10 per cent. increase in enrollment in 1929-30 over the preceding school year.

"Popularity of the commerce school under the Rev. Father Joseph A. Bartley, O. S. A., the dean, is embarrassing. The quarters allotted to the school in old Alumni Hall are overcrowded. Recitation rooms are inadequate. Unless the physical facilities are expanded immediately, the school must refuse admission to additional students."

To remedy these deficiencies the Committee on Development recommends that the new building have classroom space for 750 students and also suggests a large lecture hall be included for addresses by prominent business men.

When you do business with merchants in your own community you aid your community's contentment good-will and prosperity.

DRY-MINED COAL

Many years ago the Jeddo-Highland Coal Company blasted a seven-foot tunnel through five and a half miles of solid rock. This tunnel drains the Jeddo-Highland mines, making it unnecessary to pump, and resulting in ideal working conditions at all times.

Any article produced under clean, comfortable surroundings is, naturally, superior to one produced otherwise, and this is particularly true in the case of coal, where, at best, the miners have to work under trying conditions.

And this is one of the many important factors which, collectively, make Jeddo-Highland Coal the "Aristocrat of Anthracite."

Three Plays to Be Presented at School

'Showpeople,' Dramatic Organization at Lower Merion, to Offer Varied Program.

TO BE GIVEN FEBRUARY 28

On February 28, the Lower Merion High School auditorium will become the setting of three delightful plays given by "Showpeople," an organization of the high school. There will be a play to suit each person, at a price to suit every pocketbook.

The first play will be "The Falcon," by Alfred Lord Tennyson, a play of Medieval Italy, where Counts and fair ladies held their sway. Stephen McCormack will be the big, bold Count, while his fond and fair lady will be Annette Bergeron. The other parts will be played by Arthur Ramsey and Elizabeth Hartley.

The second play will be "The Valiant," by Holsworthy Hall and Robert Middlemas, a prison story of a silent young man doomed to the electric chair. Randolph Keim will be the prisoner and the necessary girl, Blanche Lodge. The warden, Frank Craft; the chaplain, James Bailey, and an attendant, William Gray, comprise the other characters of this tragic play.

The last play, but not the least one, is "The Ghost Story," by Booth Tarkington. The way a young man, home from college to find his "girl" constantly surrounded by a crowd, wins her, is explained by this humorous sketch. Robert Braid will be the unfortunate college boy and Helen Aiken, his "girl." The other "sheiks" and "shebas" will be John Joyce, Mary Sue Wescott, Howard Lodge, Helen Louise Thomas, Arthur Tuttle, Jane McLaughlin, William Macan, and Joyce Trenholme.

Tickets may be purchased at the school or from Richard McCurdy, 109 Bryn Mawr Avenue, Bala. A trophy will be presented to the group, which, in the opinion of the judges, puts on the best performance.

Odds and Ends

Just when the compass was first thought of it is impossible to tell. Certainly a primitive floating needle was used as a direction-finder in China and Arabia long before it was known of in Europe.

The East India Company, chartered in 1600, which for two centuries monopolized the maritime trade with India and the East, was the greatest monopoly of its kind that ever existed.

An American is credited with the first machinery for making nails.

Before the time of Columbus little had been done in the way of exploration during the preceding ages. When the news of the discovery of the New World reached Europe there following such a stampede for exploration as the world has never known before or since.

Main Line Facts

The name by which Ardmore was first known was the "Cabinet Post Office," so-called since the office was in the shop of a cabinetmaker. The Columbia Railroad gave the name of "Athensville" to the station, which it was called from 1853 until 1874. The Pennsylvania Railroad changed its name to Ardmore in that year.

Ardmore is named for a town in County Waterford, Ireland, and means "high ground." Although comparatively near the seacoast, Ardmore has an altitude of 359 feet, 300 feet more than downtown Philadelphia. It is the largest community in Lower Merion Township and contains the seat of the township government.

MISS LILA M. WRIGHT

Miss Lila M. Wright, principal of Miss Wright's School, Bryn Mawr, died on Friday at the school following a short illness. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Florence Scott Wright, and a brother, Guier Wright, who were associated with her in the management of the school.

Miss Wright was born in St. Louis in 1875, a daughter of George L. Wright. She founded the Bryn Mawr school in 1902 and it has come to be one of the best known girls' schools in this section.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the Miss Wright's School, Roberts Road, Bryn Mawr. The interment will be at Moravia N. Y.

Large Attendance at Juniors' Valentine Party

The Junior Community Club celebrated St. Valentine's Day with a party held at the club room at Elm Hall, on Thursday evening, February 13. Attendance was the largest the club has enjoyed this year, and a very pleasant evening of entertainment was enthusiastically participated in by members and guests.

The stage was attractively framed in a cupid-and-heart border, through which several club members presented in pantomime the familiar and appropriate-to-the-season poem of James Whitcomb Riley, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." Mrs. Lucille Clarke gave the reading of the poem and Mrs. Eba Sjolholm Griest's accompaniment on the piano and those who acted the parts were Mrs. Marion Haws Cooke, Mrs. Jeannette Gillis Moore and the Misses Anita Miller, Margaret Burrell, Marion Marshall and Margaret Kent. Mrs. Clark also rendered two songs in dialect by T. A. Daly, "For Goodness Sake" and "The Old Fashioned Way."

Games and refreshments followed, and everyone who could sing a note joined in the "Song Hits of the Season," which Mrs. Griest's charming touches to the piano keys made very enticing. Mrs. Clifford Goodwin, the club's president, presided, and the Juniors welcomed among the guests from the Senior Club Mrs. T. S. Newman and Mrs. L. F. Howe.

Washington

We often visit Valley Forge
When going for a ride.
Our thoughts go back to Washington
We think of him with pride.

His heart was full of pity
For his men who were so brave.
From the cold and suffering they endured
He tried in vain to save.

Their clothes were all in tatters,
And they had no shoes to wear,
And tracks of blood were on the snow
From feet so sore and bare.

No wonder he went off alone
And sought relief in prayer,
And asked for help and guidance
For his struggling army there.

His prayers were surely answered,
For his efforts they were crowned
And the name of Washington is known
The whole wide world around.

As "The Father of our Country"
Of him we often speak.
How he saved us by his wisdom
From oppression and defeat.

We honor our First President,
And with reverence speak his name.
We celebrate his birthday,
And rejoice in his great fame.
—Margaret L. Griffith.

Talks On Penn Valley

At Rotary Luncheon

A talk on the formation of the new community to be known as Penn Valley was given Tuesday by A. E. Wohlert to the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club. Mr. Wohlert, owner of the Garden Nurseries, Narberth, was introduced by Conrad J. Albrecht.

The object of the new section, embracing the country lying north of Narberth, between Cynwyd and Wynnewood, is to give this region an identity of its own. At the present time, Mr. Wohlert pointed out, residents in that section have no way of designating the location of their homes for deliveries, etc.

The region will be beautified by the planting of flowering trees and by road improvements, with signs and lights. The civic work of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club was cited as the inspiration behind the formation of the Penn Valley Association.

Airplane Map of Boro Presented to Library

The Narberth Community Library has received from Mrs. J. W. Hutchison a framed original of the airplane photograph of Narberth which appeared in the Public Ledger last summer. One who puzzled over the smudgy newsprint reproduction to find his own roof should enjoy the ease of tracing his home street in this clear picture, unless it is obscured by large trees, for the abundance of good shade, one of the borough's virtues, is plainly evident.

An interesting comparison can be made with an official map of Narberth of about 1909, also in the library. This older map shows much vacant land especially on the south side, a number of contemplated streets which have never developed, and others masquerading under unfamiliar names.

This sort of material, wherein local history can be traced, is valuable and the collecting of it is one of the function of every public library.

Elect Delegates to Congress in Washington

Mrs. Stewart Anderson, 102 Avon Road, Narberth, was hostess to the Dr. Benjamin Rush Chapter, N. S. D. A. R., on Monday. The following delegates and alternates to the Continental Congress, which convenes in Washington in April, were elected. Delegates: Mrs. C. M. Irwin, regent; Mrs. H. M. Chalfant, registrar; alternates: Mrs. T. B. duMarais, Mrs. Robert Dohard, Mrs. Stewart Anderson.

As this was the meeting devoted to the Americanism, the speaker was Mrs. Tscheloff, of Philadelphia, who brought a most interesting message of her work among the foreign-born women of Philadelphia.

Miss Rose Ehrenfeld, Director of Health Service of the Community Health and Civic Association, gave a talk on the high lights of the work of that service, and especially of the new Health Centre in Narberth.
